

Amy, Parent

"I have a child in third grade and sixth grade and they have done well on the new standardized tests. I am happy with the increased rigor of their studies and with the schools curriculum. With the increase in globalization the United States needs to keep up for our future success."