

Carolyn, Parent

"I think it is wrong to penalize children who can do math in their head. My son is forced to 'show his work' even though he comes up with the answer on his own. The constant changes are ludicrous. I have had three children go through grammar school and have gone through three different types of math whether it was common core or changing the name of something as simple as 'carrying' to 'regrouping' and 'coupling'. We are eons behind other counties because we aren't letting educators be in charge, it's all business people and how much money Pearson can make. Get yourselves together Albany."