

Desiree, Parent

"Not only do my children have a hard time trying to learn the common core way of doing mathematics but I was never taught common core in school and its hard to help them with homework or help them to get good grades when even I can't grasp common core. It is very frustrating when your child is upset because he/she doesn't understand a math problem and you can't even help them to understand it."