

Michelle Miller, Teacher

I believe there are very good parts to the common core. I feel there is nothing wrong with pushing kids to work hard and have success. The problem is that the tests are way beyond grade level. Most kids feel defeated and struggle daily. Plus, not sure why we need a 3 day test to see if they can read and solve math problems. Find a better way to asses the students and keep their score out of teacher assessment.