"I don't even know where to begin - i wish you could be at my kitchen table when my 8yr old (dob 9/28/07) third grade sits down for homework. It's a disaster. He is struggling in everything, especially reading. And because of this, it is effecting everything. Math is horrific. I feel terrible for this kid.

School should be fun and of course learning at the same time. This kid cries everyday because he has to go to school. Common Core needs to be removed. We need to go back to the basics where these kids can learn at an easier level, especially for kids like my son who is born closer to the end of the year. and when I enrolled him in school, common core was not in effect yet.

or CHANGE the cut off date to September 1st!!!!!! not December 1st...

Thanks...."
