Tammy Vitko-Woods, Teacher, Lancaster Central School District

Common Core has created a generation of students who are missing the basic foundations of education. The children need a curriculum that gets built upon each year. Common Core does not do that, and it has many gaps. The children are expected to know certain skills in order to build upon those skills. However, the basic skills are not provided in the Common Core Curriculum.