

David Behrbom, Parent

"I am very disappointed with the way the students and teachers have been treated with the implementation of Common Core. It has been a disaster.

Students are not being taught what they need to know.

The goal is to make children good test takers. Teachers have NO choice , but to test prep!! Holding teachers accountable for tests that are designed to be graded on a curve makes no sense. Students need to learn skills not strategies to pass a test.

A child should be assessed by the use of a portfolio. (The way it used to be).

New York needs to throw out Common Core and allow teachers to actually teach."