My son is 9 yrs old and in 4th grade. Last year he took the exam and based on practice test scores, his report card and his gifted test scores I expected him to do well on the ELA. I also hired a tutor that prepared him for 4 months. I was shocked when he did not do well. I do feel there had to be a disconnect somewhere between the test and curriculum. How could someone that constantly excels at school and on other standardized tests not do well.
