

Adrienne Cohan, Parent, Starpoint Schools

Students are given too many standardized tests. Kids are anxious about school, with no time to learn how to socialize with peers, or use their imaginations because the focus is on learning for the test. A sad state for education.