

Elizabeth Cooper, Parent, Rhinebeck Schools

As we all know all children learn differently. Common core I feel adds extra stress on children. Tests which include common core are excessive and need to be revised. If a child scores on the lower side of the test it doesn't always mean that he or she isn't being taught well or not being taught what they are supposed to.