

Lauren Cusumano, Parent

"My son started struggling very badly when he was in 3rd grade which is when the common core started. He ended up in special Ed classes due to the change. He is still struggling now in 6th grade and getting sick over his school work every single day which is just so terrible to watch him go through this change."