

Kathryn Dawes, Parent

"I find the standards challenging but a good thing. I think the students/children can do this. I like the idea of if someone moves, they are moving with the same standards in another state. I am anti-linking them to highstakes testing. I think we are making young children sit too long and it will cause stress and anxiety about school."