

Jennifer Dreilinger, Parent

"I feel the common core testing has had no benefit in our district and with respect to my son, other to make my student feel anxious, nervous and uncomfortable during the hours of the test and thereafter because the results have not been on par with his performance during the school year. I do not think it is effective to rate a teachers performance based on a standardized test. All students take standardized tests at different rates. We are asking too much from our children at a very early age."