I think the test are not a bad idea. In my opinion ELA test was a little too difficult and my son didn't have enough time to finish writing about the text. It is not that he lack ideas it was all about the time. Maybebecause he took the test for the first time - he was in 3rd grade in April 2015.

So the test is not measuring only the knowledge but is measuring also the way you focus and how fast and concise you are.

I agree that kids should take these tests to see if they are on the right path.

I heard a lot of parents that didn't let the kids to take the test participating in this survey.. how can you express your opinion on something that you didn't try it?
