I believe it is poor educational practice to link teacher quality to exams made by third party corporations whose sole purpose is to make money. The professionals, teachers, are the best source to create exams that are reflective of the learning that takes place in the classroom. The attempt to implement Common Core is another example of politicians trying a one size fits all to a problem that they have created in order to score political points. Allow the professionals, ie teachers, to control what happens in education just as doctors and lawyers control there professions.
