

Kathryn Heyde, Teacher, Mamaroneck Union Free School District

"Although I like the idea of having a Common Core, it has led to some teachers having to abandon their very creative ways. For example, we no longer teach divisibility rules to kids -- a valuable skill for math but we don't have the time. That is one small example of how it has negatively impacted teaching in my school."