

John Janicki, Parent

As a parent of two extremely bright elementary school children, I have had a hard time helping them understand why questions need to be answered in such unusual ways. My daughters are being asked to draw pictures to explain their answers when the math itself easily explains it for them. It makes no sense.