

James Jacovatos, Parent

"There is no benefit to my children in taking a federally mandated test. From what has been described by my children there appears to be a slant in social engineering that does not conform to our values. Therefore my children will not participate in common core going forward"