

Tina Johnson, Parent

"I am the mother of a third grade student. Helping him with his homework in the evenings is a nightmare, and it usually ends up with my son in tears because he gets so frustrated. His math homework is unnecessarily complicated! I have a college degree and have taken many college level math courses, and sometimes it takes me awhile to even understand what he is supposed to do to solve his math problems! It doesn't make sense and it just makes things way more complicated for the children. Please stop using the common core curriculum!"
