

Tessa Kwittken, Parent

"As a parent of a current 6th grader and 9th grader, I have seen the tests executed over the years. I have no problem testing students on their aptitude and skills. I do have a problem with the excessive length of the test; the testing of material that is not part of the state mandated curriculum and not covered by the teachers in the classroom; and the poorly worded questions that purposefully leave out key parts of information that are needed in order to solve the question. The tests need MAJOR REVISION, and the revision needs to be properly communicated to the educators before it is implemented this time."
