

Lauren Miller, Parent

"Where is the evidence that raising/changing standards and testing students will lead to higher achievement? Where is the evidence that the common core standards will decrease the need for remedial work in college? Where is the evidence that judging teachers by their students' standardized test scores will pinpoint the good and bad teachers and improve education? Where is the evidence that testing students every year will lessen the achievement gap? These are just some of the questions you must get answers for to complete your charge."