

Rosalie Panthaki, Parent

I submit to you the name of a venture capitalist whose soul has remained intact despite his business success and wealth. I'm sure I don't need to tell NYSED that people like him are very hard to come by these days. But he appears to truly and honestly have the well-being of our nation and children at heart. I would like to suggest that someone at NYSED make contact with him as he seems quite informed about what really ails our education system and has some wonderfully "innovative" ideas (which seem to be sorely needed by NYSED) for improving it. His name is Ted Dintersmith. I do hope someone at NYSED extends an invitation to him. He seems like the kind of person parents wouldn't mind profiting from their children's education or entrusting their child's personal data to because he seems to really care about the kids. Here is a link to a very inspiring piece about him: https://www.washingtonpost.com/news/answer-sheet/wp/2015/11/03/a-venture-capitalist-searches-for-the-purpose-of-school-heres-what-he-found/?tid=pm_local_pop_b. Thank you.
