

Tracy Rabey, Parent, Lancaster Teacher Association and Parent of students in East Aurora

I personally feel that there is a place for the Common Core, however, I feel that the implementation was short sighted and poorly done! I also feel that the way it was implemented created a divide between bright students and those that are average and below average. I do think that this was due to the short sighted implementation because there are many teachers who have not been properly trained to instruct our children the way the Common Core had intended. There were many evenings when I was helping my daughter and it was clear that her teacher had no idea what she was doing.
