

Jacqueline Sorci, Parent

"I feel that the way the common core math us being taught it would never really be used in every day life. What happened to everyday math? By the time our children grow up and go to college and get a job everything will be computerized anyway. I feel the common core just stressed children and parents out."