

Elana Watts, Parent

The common core testing has eroded the way the teachers teach in the public schools. They have to teach to the test and are less creative. My boys are severely stressed most of the year as they are getting ready for the testing. Around the time of testing they actually exhibit symptoms of a clinical anxiety disorder. The testing has to be reduced.